

Duff McKagan, Fallen

It's a deep infatuation
My endless destiny
You are the final station
Until my very last heartbeat
I try to be indecent when that's what you need

You are the changing tide
The oxygen I need outside
There come a sound in the inner sea

Oh, now can't you see I'm falling?
But I haven't hit the ground
Hold on tight, yeah, I hear you calling
Such a perfect sound
You wear the sun, you keep on shining
Like a golden crown
You are the memory
When I close my eyes, I always see
You're the one
Coming back to me

Oh, now can't you see I'm falling?
But I haven't hit the ground
Hold on tight, yeah, I hear you calling
Such a perfect sound
You wear the sun, forever shining
Like a golden crown

The stars ignite the gloomy trail
The signs of change, the coming spring
Our time is here
It's you and me

Yeah
Oh, now can't you see I'm falling?
But I haven't hit the ground
Hold on tight, yeah, I hear you calling
Such a perfect sound
You wear the sun, you keep on shining
Like a golden crown
Oh, now can't you see I'm falling?
And I'll never hit the ground