

Duran Duran, Whatever Happens Tomorrow

Dying, don't you worry
It's enough we're growing up in such a hurry
Brings you down and use the sailor
To put in your mind did all man kind is a failure
That nobody knows whats gonna happen tomorrow
We're try not to show how frightened we are
If you love me I'll protect you however I can
You've got to believe it'll be alright in the end
Fighting, because we're so close
There are times we punish those who we need the most
No, we can't wait for a saviour
Only got ourselves to blame for this behaviour
And nobody knows whats gonna happen tomorrow
We're try not to show how frightened we are
If you love me, if you are the only star in the night
You've got to believe it'll be alright in the end
You've got to believe it'll be alright again"