Edenbrigde, Arcana

here where the dream of eden waits the rivers running easy in their valleys they are slumbering there the mysteries reveal by the clearness I can feel and an island in the stream appears before my eyes I am hunting lonesome traces in the sand and someone speaks my name from far away the ruins of yesterday will disappear I will reach for the sources of light as we are all finding our new hemisphere I am turning just yearning to feel feel your dreams, don't toss them away [chorus] ancient myth arcana, elysian seas of time the stones of wisdom shine again, the moonlight hides the rhyme in long gone days of yore, one thousand years before the odyssey was in our dreams, arcana we explore here I can feel the inner flame could forget what we became and the false mirages can't deceive, deceive me no more I am facing countless shadows in despair but I won't follow them into the gloomy calm aside of light thorns of roses that I feel, secrecy under the seal hear the tolling of the bell, bring me under your spell see the mysteries in twilight they're turning away from darkness to light (into infinity) here where the dreams of eden's near leaving to a distant sphere to elysian seas of time we ride I am longing for infinity arcana, arcana tonight this journey seals my fate far beyond the open gate to the secret places never seen before for this final odyssey into arcana, arcana