

Edyta Bartosiewicz, Love

She's gone through all her life
As is she knew that nothing special
Was ever gonna happen
With no will to fight
But with a strong need of possession
Nothing in return
You see her now
She looks so old
You try to read it right from her face
(Is there still any feeling?)
She's back from faraway
Alone and forgotten
Will you still love her?

After she gets home
She don't know
You can't deny no more
She's gonna lose all your love
After she gets home
She don't know
Is she strong enough?
She's gonna lose all your love!

Things will never be the same
You gave her a hand
She wouldn't understand
She hides the truth about herself
She has no friends no good friends
To advise her
Talking talking thousands of words
Oh! It makes no sense
She won't listen to what you're saying
(It's never been that easy)
Now when you know the truth
Oh you're filled with fear
You're filled with hate
Will you still love her?
After she gets home
She don't know
You can't deny no more
She's gonna lose all your love
After she gets home
She don't know
Is she strong enough?
She's gonna lose all your love!

You wouldn't believe
If it wasn't for the devil's eyes
You've seen
You wouldn't suspect
Now she's carrying her burden
High on her back
What about love?
Love like no other
Talking talking still there's no chance
For her to recover
What about love?
It breaks into her veins
It breaks into her mind
It breaks into her soul!
That terrible fire!

She's given you more
Than you ever thought

She gave you her love - once
Tell her now what you really feel

After she gets home
She don't know
You can't deny no more
She's gonna lose all your love
After she gets home
She don't know
Is she strong enough?
She's gonna lose all your love!
