

Fish, Garden of Remembrance

He hears a voice
He tries to recognise the source and place the name
A face so familiar
The smile soft and warm
The memory evades him his mind wanders on

Down rabbit holes
A darkened maze a place to hide and be alone
Where thoughts land like snowflakes in the palm of his hand
With melting moments
His tears a surprise
He tries to remember just what made him cry
With the beautiful stranger
Who was holding his hand

He's lost between the here and now
Somewhere that he can't be found
She's still here
Her love a ghost of memory
She'll wait for an eternity
He's still here