

Frozen Crown, Kings

Howling, crawling
The creatures are screaming at nighttime
We'll be holding up the blades for the broken
For the fears we live today
For the moment we'll realize
That everything is dying with the rain
Don't close your eyes
The path we're seeking leads thousand miles away
Hold up the reins as we're not going to fall again

Kings without supremacy, suns without a reason to be

Over and over again
The fire will bend and strike at our command
Up where the winds cannot reach
Our kingdom will rise for the ones who believed

Feeding the beast with our rage
Unleashing our power
As we're marching on the way we have chosen
You will never fail again
In a moment you'll realize that everything
Will never be the same in your whole life