

Giuffria, Line Of Fire

The morning sun refused to shine.
She lives among the foolish lies.
Washed away beyond the tide.
I've looked upon her empty face.
Searching still to find a place.
A broken heart is laid to waste, before her time.

You know, you got what he wants.
You got what he needs.
You give everything baby, you think that you're free.
Sweet young lady, I've seen you before.
Looking so tough. Gonna take a little more.
It ain't that easy, you ain't that strong.
So move on back to where you belong.
You'll realize that has taken it all.
He turns his back and you take the fall.

So much love, still you're alone.
You're damned if you do and damned if you don't.

You're in the line of fire.
You're living in the line of fire.
You're living, you're living in the line of fire.

They call you a heartbreaker, they call you a star.
Till you jumped the gun, went a little too far.
You gambled with love to play in the game.
Never believing that it's all insane.

So much love, still you're alone.
You're damned if you do and damned if you don't.

You're in the line of fire.
You're living in the line of fire.
You're living, you're living in the line of fire.