Glen Campbell, Someone Above

See the birds unfolding on the tress see them blossom into leaves Wise men know someone above has made it so See the daffodil and crocus there as they bow their heads in prayer For they know someone above has made it so When the raindrops fall the flowers grow and the rivers kiss the sea But there'd be no rain no river flow if there live the fools like me Man can build his city plan his yard paint a picture called an art But I know someone above has made it so When the raindrops fall...

I know someone above has made it so
