God Module, Telekinetic

"Life is lonely, boring and dumb"

Strange days a transitional phase I think it's time that you remember cut off your ears tear out your eyes some things are gone forever

Let's start by destroying the world you know take away all the things that you control all the words that you can't understand they've made me what you think i am trying to move things with our minds in an attempt to travel back in time to take away all the pain we've seen to strip our minds and destroy our dreams life medicates the tears we cry made of materials that blind our eyes fall unconcious in an altered state focus hard before its to late lunatic craze the end of our days some things are better left unsaid delete the truth and what it means to you create your own inside your head let's end by ignoring the world we know embrace all the things we can't control all the lies that i'll never understand make me hate what you think i am trying to move things with our minds in an attempt to travel back in time to take away all the pain we've seen to strip our minds and destroy our dreams

life medicates the tears we cry made of materials that blind our eyes fall unconcious in an altered state focus hard before its to late