Hank Thompson, Just An Old Faded Photograph

Just an old faded photograph of you One I always will treasure more than gold It keeps reminding me of bygone times dear A keepsake of a love that won't grow old

Though the old faded photograph is dim In my heart there's a picture same as new As the years go passing by all alone I sit and cry Over an old faded photograph of you [fiddle - steel - guitar] Whenever I may be at any time Your picture always hangs upon the wall It keeps reminding me of bygone times dear Can't I help it if the teardrops fall Though the old faded photograph is dim...
