Hellogoodbye, (Everything Is) Debatable

I was frozen there Paralized and floating in the air Or I thought; 'Cause no one really knows I couldn't stop So I wanted her to feel the breeze just blowing through the trees A ghost of something in a lovely dose

It's such an arbitrary line that we dance We waited centuries to throw up our hands It's such an arbitrary line that we dance We dance, we dance

(Everything is) debatable (Everything is) debatable (Everything is) debatable

So I waited there Burdened by some things I shouldn't care about I brushed them off and dogged my heart black out

It's such an arbitrary line that we dance We waited centuries to throw up our hands It's such an arbitrary line that we dance We dance, we dance

(Everything is) debatable (Everything is) debatable

I was feeling kinda strange I saw the other side Floating around in the room I realized it's all but the same Despite some flashing lights Floating all around over you

It's such an arbitrary line that we dance We waited centuries to throw up our hands It's such an arbitrary line that we dance We dance, we dance

(Everything is) debatable I saw the other side The other side of my own The other siede (Everything is) debatable (Everything is) debatable (Everything is) debatable Debatable (Everything is)