

Hey Monday, Without You

I wanted you here beside me, cause this time of the year gets so cold
Everyone is smiling so brightly, can't pick myself off the floor.
You walked out in November, and I just let you go
I was the biggest mistake, because

Bells are ringing, all I hear is your voice still singing.
Moving on was no choice.
So I'll make our tree just like we use to.
Christmas just isn't the same, without you.

December makes me remember the way your eyes lit up the snow.
You always promised forever, but I guess I'll never know.
They say this is the most wonderful time of the year, but I just want to disappear.
And I think I'm losing my mind, because

Bells are ringing, all I hear is your voice still singing.
Moving on was no choice.
So I'll make our tree just like we use to.
Christmas just isn't the same, without you.

So what am I gonna do, can't go on like this
Oh, might as well throw out the mistletoe, cause it reminds me of your kiss.

Bells are ringing, all I hear is your voice still singing.
Moving on was no choice.
So I'll make our tree just like we use to.
Christmas just isn't the same, without you.

Bells are ringing, all I hear is your voice still singing. (Without you)
Moving on was no choice.
So I'll make our tree just like we use to.
Christmas just isn't the same, no, it isn't the same, it just isn't the same.
