Hoobastank, Give It Back

We've shared our lives and all of what we know But now it seems you don't know me from The guy next door, or the next or the next Give it back

You need to give it back

The loyalty is something that you lack I let you in and showed you all of me But you took it all then trashed the place

And I'm so sick of cleaning it up

Give it back

You need to give it back

The loyalty is something that you lack

Give it back

My time and devotion

Give it back

The love that I gave

No more making it up to you

I don't think that you're ever going to do it

No more making it up to you

I don't think that you're ever going to do it

No more making it up to you

I don't think that you're ever going to do it

No more making it up to you

I don't think that you're ever going to do it

No more making it up to you

I don't think that you're ever going to do it

No more making it up to you

I don't think that you're ever going to do it....

Give it back

You need to give it back

The loyalty is something that you lack

Give it back

My time and devotion

Give it back

The love that I gave

No more making it up to you

I don't think that you're ever going to do it....