

Insania, My Revelation

You don't have to love your life
But you will have to live along
Life goes up and life goes down
It doesn't have to mean it's wrong
'Cause every morning has its nights
Otherwise they won't look bright
But if you cry out for a while
It might get easier to smile

So your life is bad, is that your calculation?
Then try to understand
You will cry and you will laugh depending on the situation
And what life has in its hands, that's my revelation

In the coolest winter nights
Ice and snow reflects the light
If it's too dark, just close your eyes
It will for sure improve your sight
Every peace will need its war
So the hearts know what they're crying for
If you cry out for a while
It might get easier to smile

So your life is bad, is that your calculation?
Then try to understand
You will cry and you will laugh depending on the situation
And what life has in its hands, that's my revelation

If you decide to end your life, you'll never see the Heaven's gate
You'll lose everything
But if you choose to carry on, I'm sure the day will come
When you will hear the angels sing
And they're singing

So your life is bad, is that your calculation?
Then try to understand
You will cry and you will laugh depending on the situation
And what life has in its hands, that's my revelation

That's my revelation
That's my revelation
That's my revelation
