Iron Savior, Break The Curse

[Music and Lyrics by Sielck]

Another wasted night ahead another wasted day stuck in a dead end with a monster in your head feeding on your energy taking over control makes you obey spilling poison to the soul in dull submission you won't track down its hide it's the indifference that made you blind break the curse time is running short shorter than you think break the curse from very deep inside your mind a voice is calling you saying: there's gotta be more to life than you know shake off the routine from your mind and leave the treadmill far behind break the curse

break it up

[solo Piesel - Piet]

don't let the demon of conformity destroy it all what's still there waiting to be free go kill the monster in your head you gotta gotta gotta burn down the treadmill and move straight ahead

break the curse

stand up and raise your fist up high and make two fingers pointing to the sky
