Ironflame, Divided We Fall

Black shadows sail on the horizon A sign of the coming of war We must prepare for their arrival To crush them inn battle once more No one will take this ancient isle Its shores we defend with our lives We will protect it from the vile And their shall be none left alive

United we stand, divided we fall The time is at hand to conquer them all

As archers raise their gazes skyward The arrows descend from above Bringing a storm of blazing fire No measure of death is enough This code of honor reigns unbridled Our freedom will never be shorn Our hearts ablaze with deep desire And so shall remain ever more

United we stand, divided we fall The time is at hand to conquer them all United we stand, divided we fall The time is at hand to conquer them all