Jean Shepard, How In The World Will I Get Over

How in the world will I get over you when mem'ries of your love keep me so blue And even knowing you don't care I can't stop loving you How in the world will I get over you How in the world will I get over you when I can't even look for someone new And falling out of love it seems it's just too hard to do How in the world will I get over you How in the world will I forget your warm sweet lips And the feel of your arms the way you held me tight How in the world do I go about forgetting you When I got you on my mind both day and night How in the world will I get over you your love for me is gone I know we're through But as long as my mind remember and my heart keeps staying true

How in the world will I get over you how in the world will I get over you
