Joe Diffie, There Goes The Neighborhood

The house next door just came up for sale She's goin' home to Mama she says, "He can go to hell." The couple down the block are splittin' up, I hear There the third one's on our street this year

It's just another day in Anytown, USA Somebody's hurt, somebody's blue, somebody moves away What little they do to make it work don't seem to do much good When love moves out, there goes the neighborhood

First, they take off their wedding bands
They call it quits then call the moving vans
He takes his and she takes hers
And what's left over gets left out on the curb
It's just another day in Anytown, USA

Somebody's hurt, somebody's blue, somebody moves away What little they do to make it work don't seem to do much good When love moves out, there goes the neighborhood

It's just another day in Anytown, USA Somebody's hurt, somebody's blue, somebody moves away What little they do to make it work don't seem to do much good When love moves out, there goes the neighborhood When love moves out, there goes the neighborhood