

Johnny Clegg & Savuka, Journey's End (Emaloni)

Every day now when I wake up
You know I feel just a little bit stronger
I stir my coffee with the promise I'll find you
Although I know the road is much longer
How many times I've sat and prayed
I'd find some map to show the way
How many times I've felt each day
Laugh at me and just slip away

Chorus

I don't know where you are
My eyes are fixed upon your star
I know that that at the journey's end
I will see your face again

Indlela 'yasidedela

(The way is now clear for us)

Sihamb' emaloni

(we begin our long journey)

Another highway, another mile
Through the dreamtime, down the Nile
Under the desert sky blue

I have a picture of loving you
How many nights I lie awake
Feeling your footprints in my soul
How many miles will it now take
To fill this cup and make it whole

Chorus

Sihamba singadlile, lasho ithumbo

(We travel hungry, and our stomachs talk to us)

Chorus
