Judas Priest, New beginnings

Hope in my heart As a new day has dawned I see your light on the wings of a dove Lifting me up as the dark clouds retreat Courage transcends and you make me complete Hope in my heart with the advent of spring I am reborn with the love that you bring Now at last my dream is real I found peace True love can heal On the journey throughout time A new beginning has arrived At the crossroads of my life This new love keeps me alive I never knew that you were waiting for me Hope was out of sight And suddenly I see the future clearly No longer living in the past As I let go Living the dream Of my life I was alone no-one in sight This love - make me believe that you're the one Never give up - our day has come I never felt that this could happen to me So many lonely days and nights I never knew that you were waiting for me Hope was out of sight And suddenly I see the future clearly Finally I know at last I can let go

Living the dream