Julia Michaels, All Your Exes

I know where you've been
What you've done
Who you've loved is apart of who you are
But that maturity ship
Sails when
I hold you in my arms
There's spot on your chest
Just for me
That's personally addressed
And anyone there before me
Should be a criminal offense

And when your friends tell stories about 2017 I know there's parts that they leave out To be considerate od me Wish i could be blissfully unaware of Where you used to put your mouth And who you write your fucking song about*
