

Kaiser Chiefs, Born To Be A Dancer

You and me were made (it's impossible to say)
To be together always
Then you moved away to the capital of England
I hoped you'd stay there

Once you ask me what I'm thinking
I lay back and think of England
Do you know my real answer
I was born to be a dancer

I came down at your (on the national express)
Request to touch your breasts and
There I found that you, you were hanging with a crowd
A load of cheats and liars

Do you know what I've been thinking
I lay back and think of England
Do you know my real answer
I was born to be a dancer

Once you ask me what I'm thinking
I lay back and think of England
Do you know my real answer
I was born to be a dancer

Do you know what I've been thinking
I lay back and think of England
Do you know my real answer
I was born to be a dancer
