

Kalidia, The Lost Mariner

Sailing
on the waves near the sun Horizon's
watching our travel to nowhere Hundred miles away from the coast Thousand
from the struggle of my past life

A warning in the night
without any moonlight
The darkest omen is burning in our minds

Night is what can bring you here
Reflecting all the past
When a day is already gone,
another one is born Shadows will be gone
a shiny light will come
All around the new life just begin

Vessel's sinking down in black sea Realizes in a flash
he's going to die Starting to feel human once again
He's begging God
for a second chance

A warning in the night
without any moonlight
The darkest omen is burning in our minds

Night is what can bring you here
Reflecting all the past
When a day is already gone,
another one is born
Shadows will be gone
a shiny light will come
All around the
new life just begin

"I belong to an another world
I belong to an another time And my story has gone on..."

Land's embracing him with its warmth Memories now are flowing in his mind
Found his inner peace which was lost Wondering what life is going to bring

A warning in the night
without any moonlight
The darkest omen is burning in our minds

Night is what can bring you here

Reflecting all the past
When a day is already gone,
another one is born
Shadows will be gone
a shiny light will come
All around the
new life just begin