

Kamelot, Elizabeth: II. Requiem For The Innocent

mother can you hold me one more time again whisper "I still love you? in my ear mother did you lie would you tell me why there is something deeper that I fear justify the evil I portray daggers in the darkness find your way when the moon is full and piercing bright drench me with your innocence tonight
don't you want to die
walk beside me evermore
don't you feel alive
like you've never felt before visions of the future unprofound and blurred
I have passed the point of no return
justify the evil I portray
let me keep my beauty one more day
when the moon is full and piercing bright
drench me with your innocence tonight
don't you want to die
walk beside me evermore
don't you feel alive
like you've never felt before
don't you want to die
souls transcending, silver shine
don't you feel alive
your blood preserves my place in time