Kamelot, Opus Of The Night (Ghost Requiem) (fe

It was cold the day they found you by the river Broken dreams had turned to ice upon your cheek It was cold the day I swore Until my dying breath I'd be give my life to heal those broken dreams

I've waited Longed for the day To show you To take you away

Rise to the queen of the symphony Watch her step into the light Surrender your heart to the melody Let it take flight She'll sing to you The Opus of the night

Trembling steps into a world she had forgotten Dusty roses on a royal velvet seat And the letter in her name Brings her back again Familiar the notes upon the sheet

I've waited Longed for the day Seduce me Take me away

Rise to the queen of the symphony Watch her step into the light Surrender your heart to the melody Let it take flight She'll sing to you The Opus of the night

A dark silhouette Lingering age old desperation Reviving grand nostalgia Come shivers of pure admiration

Close your eyes Now let your emotions take flight Goddess in white

Rise to the queen of the symphony Watch her step into the light Surrender your heart to the melody Let it take flight She'll sing to you The Opus of the night

One last encore for the queen of the stage One final bow for the old prima donna

I sing to you The Opus Of The Night