

Kasia Dereń, Just A Few Words

A thousand questions inside my mind though I know for you I always tried only the wind could see my sad eyes and you were the one who couldn't realise

maybe it was a dream
that should belong to me
but the truth is ready to be spoken out loud
it was not out time

I was trying to create the world that I was constantly dreaming of but just without you it became evident it's possible to lie to myself

maybe it was a dream
that should belong to me
but the truth is ready
to be spoken out loud
it was not out time

there's no need to apologize and I believe you understand why the only thing I know I have to fight is to never lose my mind