Katie Melua, Perfect World

You're precious I can't stand seeing you cry It hurts Watching you get what you don't deserve I tell myself: "You don't belong in this rough life You should have a perfect world You should have a perfect world"

You're too gentle And much too quick to forgive Every slight And blow you've ever been dealt Well, who knows? If the world will ever deserve you You should have a perfect world You should have a perfect world

Well, who knows? If the world will ever deserve you You should have a perfect world You should have a perfect world