Keane, Love Actually

You say you've been wondering Why you're so lonely I'm not the man to ask, but I I know it's not easy When each time you give your heart Sorrow was never far behind

But it's love, □actually □ove That you must ☐ find Love, actually love ☐ That you must find

I know it's a long, cold road And if you can't see your way I'll be your sight where eyes are blind

For it's love, actually love That you will find Love, actually love That you will find

And if you should think me cold Born with a heart of stone Look in my eyes and read my mind

For it's love, actually love That you will find Love, actually love That you will find