

Kitty Wells, Change Of Heart

Well I guess you must have had a change of heart

You don't treat me like you used at the start

You're campaign of love once was a work of art

But I guess you must have had a change of heart

Guess I took too much for granted anyway

But it's just cause I'd believe those things you'd say

Not so long ago you'd swore we're never part

Well I guess you must have had a change of heart

[ whistle ]

Well goodbye to all those castles in the air

And goodbye to all the plans we used to share

They were fragrance of a dream that fell apart

Now they're gone because you had a change of heart

They're all gone because you had a change of heart
