

Kitty Wells, Full Grown Man

Some men grow up to be half child

Their mind half grown their soul half wild

Running around every day wasting their time away

And though their woman still tags along they're gonna do her wrong

But my man knows just where he stands

His love is sure cause he knows he's a full grown man

He knows where he's been and he knows where he's goin'

And I'm goin' with him yes I'm goin' with him

There's a full grown man here in my house

He's a king and he don't need a crown to show it

There's a full grown man here in my house

He loves me more than life and lets me know it

[steel]

There's a full grown man...
