

Lady Antebellum, It Ain't Pretty

I had a feeling, I was feeling alright
It just happened to be Saturday night
I put my lipstick on a little too bright
And I took a deep breathe and started to drive

He let me in without a covered charge
I found my way to the back of the bar
Peeled the corners of the cocktail napkin
Watching everybody smiling, laughing

I just bought a drink
Downtown all alone
I'm searching through the names
Getting lost in my cellphone
It ain't pretty, It ain't pretty
When a heart breaks

I made my way to the bathroom mirror
I'm standing next to some girl spilling beer
She didn't notice I was drying my tears
Just look at me now, God, how'd I get here?

'Cause I just kissed a boy
And I barely even knew his name
Let him take me by the hand
Hold me close while our old song played
It ain't pretty, it ain't pretty
When a heart breaks

I almost dialed your number
To remind you what you did
But I think it might be better
To just let this night end

So, I just called a cab
Outside it's starting to rain
Got my high heels in my hand
Oh I'm ready for the walk of shame
It ain't pretty, it ain't pretty no...
It ain't pretty when a heart breaks

I just bought a drink, it ain't pretty
I just kissed a boy, it ain't pretty
I just called a cab...
