

Leaves' Eyes, Elegy (Single Version)

Teardrop on a fragile eyelash,
She's looking like a dream,
Hoping for some understanding,
And answer or at least
A cunning word, a single sentence
To restore her heart,
Aching since the day I left her
Crossing lonely seas.

Silent tears of a woman
Make a warrior cry.
Heaven, I beg you:
Please, release hopes from fears.

This is my elegy.
Do you know what I feel?
This is my elegy.
Do you believe it's real?
Will I hold you in my arms again?

Dewdrops on a single rosebud,
This purity of rain,
Reminds me of the moment I left her,
Kisses filled with pain.
And if I should leave her waiting
For another year
Will she ever know the answer,
Will she follow me?

Silent tears of a woman
Make a warrior cry.
Heaven, I beg you:
Please, release hopes from fears.

This is my elegy.
Do you know what I feel?
This is my elegy.
Do you believe it's real?
Will I hold you in my arms,
Hold you in my arms again?

A cunning word, a single sentence
To restore her heart,
Aching since the day I left her
Crossing lonely seas.

This is my elegy.
Do you know what I feel?
This is my elegy.
Do you believe it's real?

This is my elegy.
(This is my, this is my...)
Do you know what I feel?
(This is my, this is my) elegy
Do you believe it's real?
Will I hold you in my arms again?