

Lenny Kravitz, If You Want It

Don't you let it all pass you by Looking through life's window pane
Don't you sit around wasting time
That would be a crying shame
There's a power that's deep inside
And it burns just like a flame
Just believe and you will see that God
Will shower you like pouring rain
If you want it
You can change your world today
If you want it
Just break free and walk away
There's a reason
For you to explore
Why you're here
What do you say
And the beauty is that you're the one
Who controls just how you play
There's a choice that you need to make
One is ore and one is clay
So drop your chains and take up your cross
And let Jesus make your way
If you want it
You can change
Your world today
If you want it
Just break free and walk away
If you want it
You can change your evil ways
If you want it
Just break free and walk away

If you want it
You can change your world today
If you want it
Just break free and walk away
If you want it
You can change your evil ways
If you want it

Just break free
And walk away
