Leo Sayer, Young And In Love

it's a secret and he tells no onebut his heart leaps like a beating drumthat's how it feels when you're she's the reason he smiles all daylike a bird sings in a gilded cagethat's how it feels when you're you they promise to be faithful and truebut young love needs no excuselike the future it never endsyour four in the morning she creeps down the stairruns to the rendevous will he be therea hand on her sin the moonlight there's a boy and girlthey're the only people in the worldthat's how it feels when you but can't you just remember back in timewhen the whole world was yours and minemaybe a lifetim
