Linda Eder, When I Look At You

When I look at you what i always see is the face of someone else who once belonged to me still i can hear him laugh and even though that melody plays on hes gone When i look at you he is standing there i can almost breathe him in like summer in the air Why do you smile his smile that heaven had forgotten is it true in you If you could look at me once more with all the love you felt before if you and i could disappear into the past and find that love we knew i'd never take my eyes away from you When i look at you he is touching me I would reach for him but who can hold a memory and love isn't every thing that moonlight on the bed will melt away someday Oh you were once that someone who i followed like a star then suddenly you changed and now i don't know who you are or could it be that i never really knew you from the start did i create a dream? was he a fantasy? even a memory is paradise for all the fools like me now remembering is all that i can do because i miss him so, When I look at you
