

Linkin Park, Healing Foot

It's safe to say, I've always felt this way
Holding back my words again
For fear, they're uninvited
Now, it's safe to say

This point that I've been wrong and it's all been a mess
I listen to the cars drive by and don't know why that I couldn't have left
But now, I'm stuck in the middle of a situation that I made appear
You'd be surprised at how scared of the clarity you could be 'til you see it's so clear

But it's like I can't really look at it rationally
Wishing that you could look back what I see
These things happen but actually
The things that happened have happened to me
So don't try to tell me it's all okay
I'm reaching for this to fall away
Yesterday's problems here again today and it's safe to say

It's safe to say, I've always felt this way
Holding back my words again
For fear, they're uninvited
But now, it's safe to say

This point you've been wrong and it's all been a mess
I placed all the signals out there and don't know why that you couldn't have guessed
And now you're stuck in the middle of a situation that you made so real
And you gotta just play with the cards that you got until it's your turn to deal

But it's like I can't really look at it rationally
Wishing that you could look back what I see
Everything you ever asked me to be
Is there in the smallest fraction of me
So don't try to tell me it's all okay
You're reaching for this to fall away
Yesterday's problems here again today and it's safe to say

It's safe to say, I've always felt this way
Holding back my words again
For fear, they're uninvited
But now, it's safe to say

No more regrets (I broke them down)
No boundaries left (I broke them down)
No asking how (I broke them down)
No stopping now

It's safe to say, I've always felt this way
Holding back my words again
For fear they're uninvited
But now it's safe to say
This fear is just a plague
I'm taking back my heart again
No longer undivided
Now it's safe to say