

Lisa Lavie, Falling for you

I can't believe I'm falling for you, should I
You see I'm caught up in a notion that you'll make my soul cry
Don't lend yourself to what I said
But know that these words run through my head
I can't believe I'm falling for, still I
I'm shield with wings prepared to break open and fly
Don't lend yourself to what I said
But know what I'm going through
Maybe I'm scared of all the pain
And if I let you in, I fear it would rain on me
You seem to numb your pain away
Maybe we need to brake away from our broken chains
Away from the life that we came
Baby I need for you to know, that I'm falling
I can't believe I'm falling for you, baby I'm
I'm scared of feeling these feelings fearing I'd waste my time
Don't lend yourself to what I said
But know that these words run through my head
I can't believe I'm falling, can you sway my mind
From thinking what we started would somehow end in good-bye.
Don't lend yourself to what I said
But know what I'm going through
Maybe I'm scared of all the pain
And if I let you in, I fear it would rain on me
You seem to numb your pain away
Maybe we need to break away from our broken chains
Away from the life that we came
Baby I need for you to know, that I'm falling
With no more tears in my eyes, I'm falling
I think I need a little time, I'm falling
All these fears to my demise
I need to throw them all away, I'm falling
With no more tears in my eyes, I'm falling
No more rain falling from the sky
Into these dark thoughts of mine
Maybe I'm scared of all the pain
And if I let you in, I fear it would rain on me
You need to, you need to numb
Maybe we need to break away
Away from the life that we came
Baby I need for you, I need for you to know
That I'm falling
