

Lucy Kaplansky, Eyes Of My Beholder

I was your knight in shining armor
I was honor, I was rage
But I was nothing 'til you showed me
My armor was a cage
Then we were no more boy and girl
We were a woman and a man
I thought I knew, but now I understand

All of the dreams that ever dreamed
All of the light that ever gleamed
All of the beauty that the world has ever seen
Is in your face
All of the universe is you
All of the wishes coming true
All of the birds that ever flew
Are just a memory of you
I never will get over
All the beauty in the eyes of my beholder

If I were star up in the sky
I'd shine on you both night and day
And though you won't see me when the sun is out
I'll shine on anyway
And when it rains I'll turn to raindrops
Little diamonds in your hand
So I can always see
The one who shines for me

All of the dreams that ever dreamed
All of the light that ever gleamed
All of the beauty that the world has ever seen
Is in your face
All of the universe is you
All of the wishes coming true
All of the birds that ever flew
Are just a memory of you
I never will get over
All the beauty in the eyes of my beholder
