

Magnum, The Last Dance

The last dance might be your last chance
Over your shoulder, you turn and you glance
They walk past, still no one has asked
Feeling much older, the evening has crashed

But don't surrender, don't you cry
Another lonely night, you've had enough
Another lonely night is one too much
Another lonely night, you might just give up

The last dance, you hide empty hands
No one comes near you, the noise of the band
You can't talk so you get up and walk
And all that you've been through, it's not like you thought

Don't surrender, don't you cry
Another lonely night, you've had enough
Another lonely night is one too much
Another lonely night, you might just give up
