Mariah Carey, Lead The Way

Who would've believed That you and me would fall And land together And who could've foreseen In you I'd find the place I've belonged forever And if I move closer Then love will take over And lead the way I'd given up hope Losing the faith that love Could be mine to treasure And now Nothing's the same I found myself reborn On the day I met you And if we move closer Then love will take over And lead the way Suddenly you are lying Here with me and the truths I used to hold have changed And if I move closer And let it take over Then love will lead the way And let it take over Then love will lead the way
