

Marika, Lullaby for J

I see you. you don't know what to do with your life don't know what to do with your future who to trust now. I see you. you don't know how long your breath is going to last, but you remember long when someone has gone.

You want to pay the world back.

Oh...girl friend, open your eyes and dance your story on or close them and dream on your beautiful dream

I see you. you make wild conjectures you make wild guesses your imagination, girl friend plays tricks on you.

I see you. your hope leads your astray you don't know what to choose no, you don't know what to choose from the rich variety life holds in store for you hope springs eternal in the human breast, as someone once said, but you can't live through your life happily trusting no one.