Marillion, Splintering Heart

(Hogarth/Kelly/Mosley/Rothery/Trewavas)

There's a hot hard hurt
Burning under her skin
And it pricks her like thorns
And it's needles and pins
And I know what it is
And I'm paying in pain
But it's the cost of the high
'Till the weight of the secret
And the weight of the lie
Makes my heart want to burst
Feel the ache as time goes by
Getting better and worse
Getting better and worse

And there's a screw that I tighten As I dream of the kiss And it twists and it cuts me And you know what it is? It's a fragment of love From a splintering heart And it tears her apart But not as much as this

So you save up your tears
For the moments alone
'Till the splinters you gather
Leave you glass-hard and numb
And the same sun is shining
On the old and the young
On the saints and the sinners
On the weak and the strong

And there's a burning and freezing And a cross for a kiss So she learns to stop dreaming And you know how it is

With these fragments of love And this splintering heart With the fragments And this splintering heart