Mark Knopfler, What Have I Got To Do

Now if I was to sing for you A song you never heard And give it to you my finest treasure Would you look at what I bring to you Turn without a word Leave me at your gate Keep me waiting at your pleasure

What have I got
What have I got to do
To win your love
Maybe never
What have I
What have I got
What have I got to do
To win your love
Forever

Well I'll beat out a lion heart tattoo
I'll bring you pipes and drums
I'll bring you books of burnished leather
I'll set to sea in ships for you
Brave a thousand runs
Ride a hurricane
Laugh at any stormy weather

What have I got

What have I got to do
To win your love
Maybe never
What have i
What have I got
What have I got to do
To win your love
Forever

You set no store by gems and gold You scorn my weather chart You are not concerned with men's advances I want you more a hundred-fold When you lift my heart I'll burn no other flame Bear no one else's lances

What have I got
What have I got to do
To win your love
Maybe never
What have I
What have I
Got
What have I
Got to do
To win your love
Forever
To win your love
Forever
