

Mechanical Poet, Snow White

This sunny morning looks so nice
And all is so refreshing
She hears the ticking of her clock
No sign of past depression
But yet she feels it's not some stupid dream at all

And Snow White awakes
And Snow White awakes
Your soul is full of light
You've found the heart you miss
And Snow White awakes
And Snow White awakes
The sleeping belle revived
Because of true love's kiss

But not a day before when all was painted in black
She cried by nights and felt so weary
And everything around seemed to be evil and unkind
Her tired eyes were blind and blurring
It's odd to see the smile now in a looking glass

And Snow White awakes
And Snow White awakes
Your soul is full of light
You've found the heart you miss
And Snow White awakes
And Snow White awakes
The sleeping belle revived
Because of true love's kiss

This sunny morning looks so nice
And all is so amusing
You see the things you never knew
This world is so confusing
It feels like you become a freaky child again

And Snow White awakes
And Snow White awakes
Your soul is full of light
You've found the heart you miss
And Snow White awakes
And Snow White awakes
The sleeping belle revived
Because of true love's kiss