

Moments In Grace, No Angels

I lived my life
Crippled by your spells
I walked blindly toward this lifeless hell

The truth undergone by fear
The system shut down it brought you back to tears
The many moments that I cried tainted by the suits and the ties a fire broke out in our simple mind and I was lost

If you say there are no angels
If you say there is no peace
If you say there are no angels
Then let the heavens crumble to the sea

If you know there is no hell Im looking for peace
A moment alone I will serve with conviction for the crimes i have committed You want to scorn my lovers pain
A letter on their chests I will cherish the simplest moments and live my life without regret

If you say there are no angels
If you say there is no peace
If you say there are no angels

Darker days where the lines are blurring we feel the burning we hope we will find a way
