

Morrissey, It's Not Your Birthday Anymore

Your voice it might say 'no' but the heart has a will of its own
your voice it might say 'no' but the heart has a heart of its own It's not your birthday anymore there's no need to be kind to you and the will to see you smile and belong has now gone It's not your birthday anymore
did you really think we meant all those syrupy, sentimental things that we said?

It cannot be given
and so it must be taken
it cannot be given
and so it must be taken

All the gifts that they gave can't compare in any way to the love I am now giving to you right here right now
all the gifts that they gave can't compare in any way to the love I am now giving to you right here right now

It's not your birthday anymore
there's no need to be kind to you
and the will to see you smile and belong has now gone
It's not your birthday anymore
did you really think we meant all those syrupy, sentimental things that we said yesterday?