My Indigo, Indian Summer

Waiting for an Indian summer For the time we lost, to come alive Kiss me and my body will shudder September skies electrified

I've been waiting here a 100 nights, watching everybody drink our wine And I've been wondering why I didn't have you by my side

Can you give me an encore, one more to end the show I didn't get what I came for, came for, the afterglow Show me what it takes for the dead to rise Just say the word and I'll paint the skies For an Indian summer... to come alive

Praying love will never go under A harvest moon to light the skies Autumn leaves one after another You make me watch the flowers dry

I've been waiting here a 100 nights, watching everybody drink our wine I've been wondering why I didn't have you by my side

Can you give me an encore, one more, to end the show I didn't get what I came for, came for, the afterglow Show me what it takes for the dead to rise Just say the word and I'll paint the skies For an Indian summer to come alive... to come alive!

Show me what it takes for the dead to rise Just say the word and I'll paint the skies For an Indian summer to come alive
