

Name Taken, The Stupid Chad

Another day

Shame in hand with apology, for being the things that let you down

That I'm so hard pressed to change

Trapped alone beneath, an ideal of who to be

But you can't relate or realize now

That you've pushed me again to something that I can't be

And it's all so much that you ask from me, when I try so hard to be what you expect

But I can't win and you won't forget

Another day

And only this guilt drives me

That leads to putting off what I want to be

Putting off what's meant for me

But you can't relate or realize now

That you've pushed me aside

this is how you'll leave me

Try to understand that no one believes

Or sees it my way, I guess that I'm wrong

No matter where I go I will never belong

Amount to something, at least try to be

Amount to someone, oh yeah, we're begging please

And I try so hard to be what you expect but I'm so far now