

Name Taken, Today

Did you take me up this morning?
From underground where you left me
Your eyes leave me without recognition
Know that all the idle skies have been come to me who you used to be

Hold your Breath you know how long
To watch you care to forget you were wrong
Is it okay if i dont care anymore?
We all give up sometimes
And i guess that should be good enough for me

hope your seein more of yourself then
You were ready for
All the things that you are now
And how good things were before
And now you, you left us, and pushed us so far behind

Hold your Breath, You know how long
To watch you care to forget you were wrong?
Is it okay if i dont care anymore?
We all give up sometimes
And I guess that should be good enough for me

Why are you giving up?
Why wont you stand your ground?
I guess it comes to this
A friend, just a friend now

Hold your Breath, You know how long
To watch you care to forget you were wrong
Is it okay if i dont care anymore?
We all give up sometimes
And I guess that should be good enough for me