Neil Finn, Distant Sun

Tell me all the things you would change I don't pretend to know what you want When you come around and spin my top Time and again, time and again No fire where I lit my spark I am not afraid of the dark Where your words devour my heart And put me to shame, put me to shame

And your seven worlds collide Whenever I am by your side And dust from a distant sun Will shower over everyone

You're still so young to travel so far Old enough to know who you are Wise enough to carry the scars Without any blame, there's no one to blame It's easy to forget what you learned Waiting for the thrill to return Feeling your desire burn You're drawn to the flame

When your seven worlds collide Whenever I am by your side And dust from a distant sun Will shower over everyone Dust from a distant sun Will shower over everyone

And I'm lying on the table
Washed out in the flood
Like a Christian fearing vengeance from above
I don't pretend to know what you want
But I offer love

Seven worlds collide Whenever I am by your side And dust from a distant sun Will shower over everyone

As time slips by, and on and on
